ABOUT ME AND MY WORK

Hi! I'm Alessia Colombo, an Italian illustrator passionate about bringing educational content to life.

I create visuals that guide students from primary school to high school, turning complex topics into clear, engaging moments on the page. Over the years, I've illustrated a wide variety of textbooks — from playful early-math resources to thought-provoking civic-education materials for teens — developing narrative sequences and thoughtful page designs that make learning intuitive and visually compelling.

Representation is at the heart of my work: I love building worlds filled with diverse characters, multicultural families, and inclusive scenes, so every student can feel seen, welcomed, and part of the story.

If you're looking for illustrations that teach, connect, and spark curiosity, I'd love to collaborate.
